

REICHSTAG MAY DISSOLVE OVER DAWES PROBLEM

Berlin, Aug. 27.—Possibility of the dissolution of the reichstag as a result of the fight over ratification of the Dawes reparation plan grew stronger today.

Leaders of the German nationalists, who hold the balance of power in the reichstag, threatened to vote against ratification unless the London pact is substantially changed.

The inter-party fight over the Dawes plan reached its climax with dissensions in the ranks of the coalition parties. The right wing is proposing amendments in the covering note, while the left wing is violently opposing any changes.

It is an open secret that the German nationalists are striving for national authority through entrance of the coalition and the possession of important positions in the cabinet.

Fervent political bargaining is progressing behind the scenes.

The Dawes plan bills were to be called up for second reading this afternoon.

APPLICATIONS FOR XENIA POSTMASTER SENT TO WASHINGTON

Tuesday was the last day of the period allowed for filing applications for appointment as postmaster at the Xenia office.

As all applicants sent their application papers direct to the postal department at Washington, D. C., there is no list of candidates for the position available here.

George Hamilton, official of the civil service commission here, has a list of people who applied for application blanks. The list includes several attorneys who obtained the papers for clients. Others included are C. H. Little, D. H. Barnes, Emory Beal, John M. Davidson and Erskine Winter.

Walter L. Dean took out two sets of papers. John Vanderpool was given an application blank he requested for a friend.

The term of Postmaster H. E. Rice, Democratic incumbent, expired in June. Examinations for an office of this nature are conducted in the nature of a personal survey of the applicants. A postoffice inspector will investigate each candidate and grade each according to his record and capability for the position.

Three names will be certain as eligible for appointment, and the selection will depend in a large measure on Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, whose recommendation will be important. The endorsement of the Republican organization here may also be given one of the candidates.

Congressman Brand is now in Europe and is not expected to return until the latter part of October. As postoffice inspectors to make the investigations are also scarce and busy on postal robberies and other business, it may also be some time before the candidates are graded. Under these conditions it is not expected the appointment will be made until after the November election.

In the meantime Postmaster Rice is held over in charge of the office.

NEW AMBASSADORS WILL CONFER WITH EXECUTIVES SOON

Washington, Aug. 27.—The newly appointed ambassadors to Japan and Mexico—Edgar A. Bancroft of Chicago and James R. Sheffield of New York, will come to Washington within the next few days for conferences with President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes before leaving for the foreign assignments, it was announced here today.

As neither of the new envoys has been connected previously with the American diplomatic service, it will be necessary for them to undergo a "course of instruction" at the State Department to acquaint them with the details of the administration's foreign policy and the various matters now pending between the United States and the government to which they will be accredited.

Pending formal approval of their appointment by the Senate, Bancroft and Sheffield will not receive regular salaries, although their expenses will be defrayed by the State Department in anticipation of the nominations early in December when Congress convenes.

Both of the new ambassadors are lawyers and their selection was brought about largely by Secretary Hughes, whose friendship and knowledge of their abilities was developed through his relations with them in the American Bar Association of which he is president.

Crushed at Pleasure Park.

SUPPLY SHIP OF U. S. WORLD FLYERS CAUGHT IN ICE PACK.

This is the cause of delay which overtook the American flyers attempting to girdle the earth by air when they reached Iceland. The "Gertrude Rask," supply ship for the aviators, is shown bound in tightly packed ice in the North Atlantic. The aviators were forced to wait for the ship to extricate herself so she could make a base for them in the harbor of Angmagssalik, Greenland.

CIVIL WAR FOR CHINA CONTROL IS THREATENED

Shanghai, Aug. 27.—Civil war for control of China is threatened as a result of growing rivalry between the powerful political factions, in the opinion of foreign observers today.

Heavy troop movements are reported between Nanking and Soochow. Martial law has been proclaimed in Kiangsu and Chekiang Provinces.

Business is at a standstill and many American firms in outlying districts are appealing to the United States consulate for protection. In addition to the international fleet gathered at Canton to protect foreigners, it is believed that other American, British, French, Portuguese, Japanese and Italian war craft will come into Chinese waters.

Refugees are pouring into Shanghai in a steady stream with reports that troops were moving in all directions, but that they had not been in any actual fighting.

WHEELER CALLED TO FACE CHARGE

Washington, Aug. 27.—Charged with misusing his office, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana was notified to appear before the federal court in his home state on Sept. 1 for arraignment. The indictment charges that Senator Wheeler accepted money from Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil operator, for representing the latter's interest before the interior department after his election to the senate.

Wheeler issued a statement saying he would be present at the trial, adding: "I have been seeking a trial at every stage of the proceedings. The charge against me is a misdemeanor, and it is an unheard-of thing that a defendant on a misdemeanor charge should be required to stand for arraignment in person, for even the trial itself may be held without his presence. However, I shall be there."

WARDLOW SPEAKS TO MILK PRODUCERS AT MEETING TUESDAY

Frank Wardlow of this city, president of the Miami Valley Co-operative Milk Producers' Association addressed members of the association and co-operative dealers of Springfield and Dayton, who held a picnic at the farm of W. N. Scarff, near New Carlisle, Tuesday.

At noon a basket dinner was served on the lawn of the residence. After dinner, an athletic program for men and boys was staged.

Speakers of the day besides Mr. Wardlow, included, E. D. Wade, of Columbus, representing the Dairy Marketing Department of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; William H. Bitner, general manager of the Springfield Dairy Products Co.; C. W. Lawrence of Springfield and W. N. Scarff.

Alleged Plotters Seized.
Moscow, Aug. 27.—Government agents in Vladivostok have arrested forty leaders of a plot to overthrow the soviets and re-establish the monarchy. The leaders included the Grand Duke Nicholas, brother of the late czar, and the Grand Duke Cyril, the czar's cousin. The conspirators were connected with monarchist centers in Harbin and Paris and hoped to discredit the soviets by banding and organized raids.

Klansmen Warned.
Detroit, Aug. 27.—Alleged activity on the part of the Ku Klux Klan at Camp Custer drew from General George Van Horn Moseley, camp commandant, an order saying the guns will open up if another meeting similar to ones of the last two nights is held on the reservation.

NORTHERN GALE MAY AGAIN DELAY FLIGHT OF INTREPID AMERICANS

On Board U. S. Cruiser Richmond, Aug. 27.—(By Wireless)—Forecast of a northeast gale today made it unlikely that the United States Army round the world flyers would be able to hop off tomorrow morning on the 555 mile leg over their historic air journey from Ivikut to Indiana Harbor.

POLICE ARREST MAN THOUGHT GUILTY OF NUMEROUS THEFTS

Culmination of a series of robberies dating back to a period preceding the County Fair was thought to have been reached Tuesday afternoon by police officials with the arrest of Joseph Alexander, 18, of Omaha, Nebraska.

Police received a tip as to his whereabouts Tuesday but Alexander led the officers a merry chase eluding them for more than an hour by running up crooks, hiding in woods, dodging through bridges, around houses and through alleys, before he was finally caught through the combined efforts of Chief of Police M. E. Graham, Patrolman Charles Thompson and several bystanders.

Patrolman Thompson fired five shots at the fugitive, in order to scare him and Chief Graham shot twice but Alexander only ran the faster.

He is thought by police to have perpetrated a series of robberies several weeks ago in which the residences of John Beacham of Hill Street, Harry Fudge, of Hiving Street and others were entered.

When questioned by Chief Graham, Tuesday, Alexander confessed to stealing a bottle of milk from the ice box of Mrs. T. J. Savage, 34 Home Ave., Monday evening, but remained obstinately silent regarding other alleged robberies during the last week.

He is alleged to have attempted an entrance into the home of Otis M. Pramer, 18 Home Avenue, Monday morning about 2:30 o'clock, but after fruitless efforts, during which he partially removed a screen from a basement window, he was frightened away by Mrs. Pramer. Police were called but no trace of the intruder was found. Mrs. Pramer called police again Tuesday when she saw him, who led to his capture. She later identified him at Police Headquarters.

Other robberies and attempts Alexander is alleged to have perpetrated include a forced entrance to the basement of Patrolman Chas. Thompson's home on Home Avenue Monday night in which nothing was taken and the stealing of a railroad pass Tuesday noon at the Pennsylvania Road House, belonging to Ollie Towles. The pass was removed from a coat hanging in the check room at the round house. Alexander is also alleged to have stolen meals from dinner pails belonging to railroad employees for the last week. The pass was recovered when he was arrested.

He is being held at Police Headquarters pending his arraignment on probable charges of robbery in Juvenile Court Wednesday or Thursday. Numerous reports to Police Headquarters of his appearance in various neighborhoods were received during the last two weeks.

POSTAL SLEUTH UNDER ARREST FOR MAIL THEFT

Chicago, Aug. 27.—William J. Fahy, postal inspector who directed the investigation of the $2,000,000 mail robbery, June 2, at Rendout, Ill., continued to protest his innocence today in a cell at the county jail in Geneva, where he was held in default of $50,000 bond.

Fahy, to whom are credited some of the heaviest captures of bandits who prey on the mails, is charged with conspiracy in connection with the Rendout robbery.

The tip "Watch Fahy" came from one of the confessed participants in the robbery. Fahy himself had said from the first that the gigantic robbery bore the earmarks of inside direction. This tip brought A. E. Germer, chief postal inspector, to Chicago, and shortly after he summoned postal inspectors J. S. Lemon of Baltimore, B. G. Miller of Washington, Thomas Mulligan of Toledo, C. C. A. Battles of New York, R. E. Nicoloy of Syracuse, and John W. Hartwell, of Albany.

These were strangers to Fahy. They tapped his office telephone, searched his files, went through his home. Then reported that information essential to the Rendout case had been removed from the files.

The arrest was made after a supposed attempt to trap a westside "fence" suspected of holding some of the bonds taken in the Rendout robbery. None but Fahy knew that the fence would be approached by a federal operative's move was met with a sneer, the warrant already issued against Fahy was served.

The Rendout robbery was one of the boldest and biggest in Midwest crime annals. A well organized gang, operating in five automobiles, stopped the train carrying the richest shipment in months, went to the cars carrying the money and, without loss of time, picked out the mail sacks containing the bonds and currency.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—A sensation was caused here by the arrest of a postal inspector in connection with the $2,000,000 mail robbery at Rendout, Ill.

William Fahy, member of the local force of inspectors, was arrested in the federal building and is charged with being the ringleader in the robbery.

He was taken before a federal judge and his bond was fixed at $50,000. He made no effort to raise the bond and was placed in the county jail at Geneva, Ill.

Arrest of Inspector Fahy came after weeks of observation, officials stated, during which he was said to have been seen frequently in the company of men suspected of connection with the Rendout robbery, and to have been in communication with six other men who fled to various parts of the country after they were suspected of complicity. Fahy declared his arrest was the result of a "frame-up" and asserted his innocence.

Inspector Fahy has been instrumental in clearing up some of the most famous postal robberies. It was through his efforts that "Big Tim" Murphy, former powerful labor and gang leader here, was sent to the Leavenworth (Kan.) federal penitentiary for participation in the $1,000,000 Dearborn street station mail robbery.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe denounced Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb in presenting the state's argument for the death penalty for the slayers.

Crowe openly charged that Robert Franks was mistreated as well as kidnapped and murdered, and said that Loeb and Leopold were entitled to as little mercy as rattlesnakes and mad dogs. A large part of his denunciation was based on testimony previously whispered to the court. Crowe continued:

"What did these boys first plan? A plan to kidnap a little girl, beat her, then murder her, and on top of all that try to collect ransom. But they changed their plans and they decided their victim should be a boy. What does the testimony in this case show? It shows that Robert Franks had been the victim of mistreatment."

Leopold and Loeb sneered openly at Crowe. Time after time as Crowe approached within two feet of them and shook his fists in their faces, the youths looked up into his eyes and grinned at him, Leopold particularly taking great delight in sneering.

"As the judge of this court, you have no right to forgive anyone who trespasses against the state of Illinois," Crowe thundered at Judge Caverly in demanding the death penalty for Leopold and Loeb. Capital punishment checks murder, Crowe stated, quoting the records of Cook county. Contrary to the statement of Darrow that hanging does not stop murder, Crowe called attention to the fact that 15 death sentences imposed in these courts in 1919 caused a drop of 51 per cent in murders in this county in 1920.

LOVE FIGHT ENDS AS WOMAN IS CUT

Alexandria, La., Aug. 27.—According to Sheriff Downs, two women met by pre-arrangement on a highway here and, with a third woman as a witness, fought with their fists for the love of the husband of one until one of the combatants drew a dirk and stabbed the other. The wife was Mrs. A. D. Foreman of Lake Charles. Her opponent, for whom she charges her husband deserted her a year ago, was Miss Mildred Lee of Alexandria. Mrs. Foreman, who was stabbed in the back, shoulder and chest, but not seriously hurt, drove from Lake Charles accompanied by Miss Lulu Benfil, with the intention of whipping Miss Lee, she told the sheriff. Mrs. Foreman found Miss Lee, the sheriff said, and proposed a fist fight. Accompanied by Miss Benfil, they drove to the country and with Miss Benfil as referee they went at it. Mrs. Foreman, apparently, was getting the best of it, she told the sheriff, when Miss Lee drew a dirk.

Hospital Patient's Fall.
Columbus, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Louise Borean, 34, fell from a third floor window at White Cross hospital. Left alone, Mrs. Borean, who underwent an operation, got up from her bed, climbed onto the window sill, flung her weight against the screen and fell out, hospital officials said. The fall reopened the wound, necessitating another operation.

To Build Sewage Disposal Plant.
Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—A new $700,000 sewage disposal plant is to be built here under orders of the Stark county health board. Building of the plant will make the city's bonded indebtedness more than $3,000,000.

LOEB AND LOEPOLD ARE WITHIN SIGHT OF END

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., the strange young disciple of many strange and weird philosophies, and Richard A. Loeb, the bad little rich boy, came within sight today of the punishment that will be meted out to them for murdering Bobby Franks, the gaunt galloway of Cook county jail, or the grey prison walls of Joliet.

One of these fates will be theirs. Their trial, which has run into its sixth week not withstanding their plea of guilty and which has attracted more jurists, scientists and publicity than any other criminal trial in American criminology, may end today.

It is probably that late this afternoon after they have listened to hours more of sulphuric denunciation at the hands of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, the hard bitten prosecutor will decide his case against them is complete, and will place the decision that means life or death for them into the hands of Judge John R. Caverly.

The trial draws to a close with bitter feelings growing more pronounced between the opposing counsel and charges of "unfairness" being hurled about Judge Caverly's courtroom by the defense. This charge has resulted from a dramatic last minute attempt of state's attorney to show that behind the sanguinary murder of the Franks boy lay abnormal and unnatural desires on the part of Leopold and Loeb.

Defense lawyers hotly resented this effort on the part of the state's attorney to make the brutal crime appear even more brutal. They contended, and brought the coroner's report to sustain them, that there was no tangible evidence of mutilation or assault on the body of Bobby Franks, either before or after death.

The defense has a theory and the state has a different one. Crowe says the body had been in the dirty water of a culvert more than twenty-four hours after death. And water destroys evidence.

DAMAGE JUDGMENT AGAINST SCHOOL IS UPHELD BY COURT

Decision rendered in Common Pleas Court here granting Grace Green judgment in the sum of $5,000 for alleged personal injuries, against Wilberforce University and the board of trustees of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department at Wilberforce University has been upheld by the Court of Appeals.

The defendants prosecuted the action to the appellate court on error, and on the grounds that the C. N. I. Department is a branch of the state, and not liable in this action. The appeals judge in their decision just handed down, hold that there was no error in the trial in the lower court and also that the board of trustees of the C. N. I. Department was not a branch or part of the state but constitutes an organization separate from the state and capable of being sued in an action at law.

The court therefore held that the joinder of the board with the university as party defendants to the action was proper and that both were jointly responsible for the injury and that the joint judgment was proper. The plaintiff won her judgment on the grounds that she sustained injuries when she fell in an open man hole on the university grounds. The accident is said to have happened when an employee entered an underground passageway through the man hole to repair lights that had gone out in the gymnasium preceding a basketball game.

THREE INJURED AS AUTO SKIDS FROM ROAD WEDNESDAY

Three men were injured, none seriously, when the Ford roadster in which they were riding skidded off from the Jamestown Pike onto a road the road while attempting to turn leading to the Cedarville Pike, at the junction of the Jamestown Pikes early Wednesday morning.

The injured are: Robert Wagner, Mason, Ohio, right leg cut, cuts in his neck and around the mouth.

Joseph Solsman, Westchester, Ohio, cuts on the right wrist.

Sam Solsman, Westchester, driver of the car, bruised mouth. All three were shaken up.

The three men were on their way to Columbus to attend the Ohio State Fair when the accident happened about 5:30 o'clock in the morning.

The car skidded off the road and its side struck against a tree and a fence. The body, top, windshield and right front wheel of the car were smashed and the wreck hauled in to a Xenia garage.

Dr. R. R. McClellan attended the injured men and brought them to this city.

BOYS ENTERED IN JUDGING CONTESTS

Fred R. Keeler, Smith-Hughes Agricultural Department teacher of Central High School, accompanied Delmer Bull, James Bickett, Clarence Shaw, and Russell Dean, representing the school department, to the Ohio State Fair, Wednesday afternoon.

The boys will take part in the state grain and livestock judging contests. Grain will be judged Thursday morning and livestock, Friday morning.

CROSSINGS HAVE BEEN ELIMINATED

Columbus, Aug. 27.—Director L. A. Boulay of the state highway department, reports that in the department's campaign for elimination of grade crossings, 109 such dangerous crossings have been eliminated on state and county roads throughout the state. He said that 58 dangerous crossings on state highways have been eliminated by re-location, seven by overhead crossings, and six by under passes. On county roads 15 crossings have been eliminated by re-location, 12 by overhead crossings and 11 by under passes.

In spite of efforts to eliminate crossings, efforts show that crossing accident fatalities are on the increase.

RECORD LITTER IS FARROWED BY SOW

Fred Williamson, south of Xenia, claims the record in hog production. One of Mr. Williamson's sows stole away August 17 and farrowed a litter of pigs. On the evening of the 18th, she came proudly back to the barn with eighteen live pigs all able to navigate by their selves.

Mr. Williamson says he doesn't know whether they all came back or not and as he felt that the sow had done well enough he never sent out to look for any more.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

One of the most frequent of all troubles of infants and young children and one of the most difficult to manage at times by the present inadequate methods employed by mothers, is diarrhea. The most frequent cause for this trouble is indigestion, and the improper selection of food. Many cases also result from taking cold, or from exposure to torrid temperatures. This condition is, therefore, extremely common in bottled babies—always more susceptible to this trouble than those who are breast-fed, in the summer-time, or when there are rapid changes of temperature to deplete the vitality.

Diarrhea may rightly occasion a very considerable degree of anxiety on the part of the young mother, because of the fact that when acute it drains the fluids from the body at an unbelievably rapid rate, causing the tissues to appear shrunken and livid, and in certain instances involving an alarming loss of weight.

Not infrequently, if the condition persists for any length of time, the blood may become impoverished. The skin may take on an earthy hue, with a sallow, livid complexion.

In all cases of diarrhea, careful hand washing should follow evacuation of the bowels, so as to prevent irritation.

Inasmuch as diarrhea is an effort on the part of Nature to rid the system of irritating poisons, it is obvious that our first duty should be to stop all food, and give Nature a chance to evacuate the poisons from the bowel.

Nothing but plain water should be given, therefore, until the bowel has had a chance to empty itself of its poisonous contents. Never give paregoric, laudanum, or opium to any child suffering from diarrhea or any other disturbance or disease. They kill pain and mask true conditions.

The chalk and bismuth mixtures which are so frequently recommended in these conditions, are merely palliative in their nature, and do not really attack the condition at all. It is better to avoid these.

If the baby is bottle-fed the sugar should be omitted and the fat in its milk modification reduced.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BEST SINCE THE WAR

The Middle West, a canvass of leading industries reveals, is wholly optimistic. It is safe to say that sentiment, business-wise, is better at present than at any time this year. Virtually all lines, steel, lumber, railroads, building materials, packing, merchandise, anticipate a steadily mounting business in the next few months, with a prospect that before the year ends the turnover will exceed the best mark of last spring.

The late spring and summer months were not conducive to good business. Weather was unseasonable and there were too many uncertainties in the political and foreign situation to permit of any extensive commitments.

Now, however, there is hardly a cloud of any particularly dark hue on the horizon. Politically the outlook is most encouraging. Whether the Democrats or the Republicans are successful in the forthcoming national balloting, business does not figure it will be hurt in view of the caliber of men heading the two party tickets, and the platform planks, none of which are unsettling in character. The LaFollette movement is not taken particularly seriously, although it is not being entirely eliminated in the business reckoning. On that score then the record appears clean.

Internationally, the outlook is the best since 1917. The Dawes plan is calculated to put Europe on her feet financially and start her natives to work again. There is a broad purchasing power there that is certain to absorb tremendous quantities of American grain, meat and byproducts and manufactured goods of various description.

At home the considerations usually entering into business calculations are mainly favorable. Money is cheap and credit ample, and not even bankers anticipate any considerable advance in interest rates. Underlying purchasing power is large, particularly in view of the fact that the farmer can now be counted to do his share of the buying. Considerable building and repairing remains to be done, notably in farm rehabilitation and road building which is going to keep the building and allied industries busy.

THE LITTLE BROWN PEOPLE INQUISITION

Eskimo canoes had a startled meeting with the reconnoitering plane sent to the ice-beset coast of Greenland. The Eskimo mind is acquisitive and inquisitive; the little brown people of the North are eager to possess and apply the new inventions. They have not yet solved the mystery of flying like the eider or the gull. But they will learn. The pioneer of America's determined air venture is the precursor of an air fleet that may yet link Greenland with civilization. Scientific uses will be found even for the mighty potency of the wind that raves over the central ice-sheet, and Humboldt Glacier itself, which now sends bergs to the ruin of gallant ships, may some day assist processes of refrigeration in warmer clime. Long ago Kipling suggested that airships might carry sufferers from pulmonary ailments to the clear, pure Arctic ozone and in the unpredictable future it is certain that the circumpolar space will not be the frozen desolation that it is today.

GEORGIA LOOKING UP

Georgia's crop will bring in $100,000,000 more this year than last, and the State will jump from eighteenth place among the States to fifth or sixth in point of value of agricultural crops, if the latest estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture hold good.

The latest estimate of worth of Georgia's crops this year is $337,942,000 against production for 1923 of $236,000,000.

The cotton crop is estimated at 1,080,000 bales, worth approximately $152,280,000. The corn crop is given at 59,256,000 bushels, worth $76,000,000, and the sweet potato crop will run more than 10,000,000 bushels, worth more than $15,000,000.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

Once there was a king who said:
"I have power o'er all things;
Wherever I may tread
Tremble great and small things."

"None there is to cry me nay!
As I will, so is it;
Who my word shall disobey
Dungeons deep shall visit."

One day spake his merry fool:
"Sire there's nothing to it!
Men are easy things to rule,
Any king can do it."

"Tis the crown and not the man
Makes them bow and fall so;
Let me wear it and I can Win obedience also."

"Men are always seeking things
From a monarch's larder,
That is why they flatter kings,
Let's try something harder!"

"If you think the power is yours
All things here to master,
Bid the oak nest in doors
Or the oak grow faster."

"Tell the song birds not to sing
"Till you wake each morning;
See, oh gave and mighty king,
If they'll heed your warning."

"Men may tremble at your words
True to you or traitor,
But all nature's beasts and birds
Serve but their Creator."

Two brides have written to ask for fish recipes. Here are some excellent ones:

Individual Fish Souffles—Use cooked, left overs of any kind of fish. Flake it and measure. To one cupful add one tablespoon of minced parsley, one chopped hard-boiled egg, one-half teaspoon either chopped green pepper or pimiento, one-half cup of ordinary white sauce (made by thickening one-half cup of hot milk with one teaspoon of flour, then adding one-half teaspoon of butter and a pinch of salt and cooking till smooth); and, after mixing together the parsley, fish, hard-boiled egg, pepper and sauce, lastly fold one stiffly-whipped raw egg-white into the mixture. Turn into individual baking dishes, or ramekins, filling each little dish only one-half full, and bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes—or till risen and well browned. (This recipe fills four small ramekins.)

Baked Spanish Lobster—Split a two-pound live lobster, remove claws and crack. Cook half a tablespoon of chopped shallot and one and one-half tablespoons of chopped carrots in one tablespoon of butter for five minutes; add a pinch of salt, one-half cup of either soup stock or clear canned soup, and three-fourths of a cup of stewed ripe tomatoes (or canned tomatoes). Cook the lobster in this mixture for 20 minutes, then remove it from the liquor, separate meat from shell and cut it into small pieces. There should now be left in the pot one cupful of the liquor in which the lobster was cooked; strain this, then thicken it with one tablespoon of cornstarch cooked for a moment in two tablespoons of melted butter. Mix the lobster meat with this sauce and turn the mixture into shallow buttered ramekins. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven or till well browned.

THE RICH PERSONALITY

Growth comes about through accumulation. The millionaire had to earn his first penny. Then he set that penny to work. Then work by the pennies became a habit—and there you have your millionaire!

But it isn't material wealth or high honor or achievement that gives to a human being his rich personality. It's the passing by of things desired and that his bodily life craved, but which might have ruined him.

The rich personality is the strong mind in a strong man.

You have to sense this rich personality. You can't put it on a scale and weigh it. You can't measure it with a tape. You can't take a picture of it. You have to feel it.

And what worlds of action, of sacrifices, of givings up, of heroic silent victories pass through the heart of a man who has looked the world in the face and snapped his fingers in the front of staring eyes.

He who is able to fascinate and hold the affections of the many has an understanding heart. It has known every emotion. And it is a heart that let's folks of all sorts into its lounging room, giving out warmth and beauty to all.

Such a personality doesn't seek to harm or to give out revenge for cause. It has too much intelligence.

The great character is but a finished picture of choices. We know a man just the minute that we have partaken of his thoughts. We know from whence they have come.

Cream is the richness of the milk risen to the top. And so is the rich personality—the fine and best of a man's selections and experiences risen to the top and held there.

Bryan and Klan Issue.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 26.—Governor Charles Bryan, Democratic vice presidential nominee, admitted here he had views regarding the Ku Klux Klan, but was not prepared to express them for publication. The nominee indicated, however, that once he is given the opportunity he would make known his views.

Road Building Far Behind the Automobile

Millions now recognize the automobile as a necessity. It is no longer a luxury for the few. Sixty per cent of its use is for business.

Because of this the modern paved highway has become an economic necessity.

Yet although the mileage of Concrete Roads and Streets has been steadily increasing, our highway system today lags far behind the automobile. The great majority of our highways are as out of date as the single-track, narrow gauge railway of fifty years ago.

Such a condition not only seriously handicaps the progress of the automobile as a comfortable, profitable means of transportation, but also holds back commercial, industrial and agricultural advancement in practically every section of the country. It is costing taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Highway building should be continued and enlarged upon.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support. Tell them you are ready to invest in more and wider Concrete Highways now.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Sees Some New Fall Coat Styles

By Jay V. Jay

It's come! The very letter Mitzi has been looking for. It bears news that will be the foundation of some of her important fall plans. Is it from the Goofy? Or Bill? Or Dad? No indeed. It is from Madame Celeste telling Mitzi about her exclusive opening featuring new fall coats.

Mitzi believes in being late to a great many engagements. But not to a fall opening. Never! Wherever style is concerned Mitzi is always ahead of time. Look at this advance model, if you will; the fur extends down the entire length of the coat. The waist is fitted in slightly. The sleeves flare.

The next model is noted for its distinctive fabric. It is one of the new Rodier fabrics, a combination of wool and artificial silk. The large collar is a feature and the cuffs are banded with the same fox fur. Notice the hat that is worn with it.

Is it a coat or dress? asks Polly when Mitzi comes home with her new costume. "Both," says Mitzi. Notice the zig zag trimming and also the simple leaf design embroidered on the collar and the sleeves. It is just one of the styles that are new.

SHAMPOOING

FARM PROGRESS

MANSFIELD MECCA
FOR OHIO GUERNSEY
BREEDERS AT MEET

Raemelon Farm, at Mansfield, Ohio, proved to be a real Mecca for Ohio Guernsey breeders, on August 14. There were there from all parts of the state, even from far off Iron-on, on the south. The crowd was conservatively estimated at 1,000 and was by far the largest gathering of Guernsey breeders ever assembled in Ohio. By actual count 749 persons registered for a chance on the attendance prizes and there were at least 250 automobiles parked in the pasture near the buildings.

The program consisted of a demonstration of the power plant, a parade of the Guernsey cattle, the judging of these animals in five classes and the drawing for the attendance prizes, which were two fine sons of Langwater Horatus, the $18,000 sire owned by E. S. Burke, Jr., of Chagrin Falls.

The crowd gathered in a large amphitheatre just before the drawing for a panoramic photograph. The first calf was drawn by J. W. Plazer, a barber from Mansfield. It was afterward sold by Auctioneer Walter F. Andrews, of New Philadelphia, to Dr. Chas. H. Brown, of Mansfield, for $140. The second calf went to E. S. Schaus, a Richland County farmer who has just begun breeding Guernsey cattle.

The state association had a fine booth on the porch of the house from which Guernsey products were exhibited and literature given out. The Richland County Guernsey Association gave away 800 cones of the finest Guernsey ice cream that it is possible to produce. Much of the credit for the success of the day is due to Dr. Chas. H. Brown, of Mansfield, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Frank B. Black, president of the Ohio Guernsey Association, and owner of Raemelon Farm, were ideal hosts. The entire place was thrown open for inspection and every one seemed to enjoy the liberty given them. Raemelon is one of the great Guernsey show places of the State and the 90 animals kept there are among the best. Some 400 quarts of special Guernsey milk is sold each day in Mansfield at 15c per quart.

SUPER-POWER TO
BABSON DECLARES

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 20.—The possible development of 4,000,000 electrical horse power on the St. Lawrence River, whether the waterway project is undertaken or not, has again brought up the problem of the effect of super-power developments on existing public utility properties now generating and selling electrical power. At least one investment authority Roger W. Babson, believes that such a development will strengthen the local companies and work to the advantage of those who own their securities.

"Super-power proposes to 'bank' the power of existing producers of electrical energy by connecting individual systems and adding the output as economical sources of electrical energy," says the statistician. "A single system has been proposed, for instance, that would embrace all territory between Boston and Washington, D. C. This would immediately make the same electrical power available in this entire territory that now exists only in our larger cities. Manufacturing under these circumstances need not concentrate in the congested districts but could locate wherever natural advantages of raw material, nearness to market or other factors might dictate. Efficient, economical and almost unlimited electrical power would be available anywhere."

"Operating individually each company must maintain equipment to carry a peak load just as banks in the old days were forced to protect themselves with a reserve large enough to meet emergency demands. Under a super-power arrangement with scores of plants operating on a connected system this reserve capacity is not required. Whenever any one company has demand for more power than it can produce the surplus can be drawn from surrounding properties. Likewise if a power producer has a hydro electric plant that will make more power than the immediate locality demands the surplus can be supplied to others. This power 'borrowed or loaned' is measured as it flows from one locality to another and the individual companies balance accounts and settle differences. Here we have a Federal Reserve System in the power field that pools all resources for the benefit of the group and eliminates the margin of protection that formerly had to be maintained by each individual operator."

"Assuming that a super-power project is put into operation let's see what happens to the individual company. First, it continues to sell power and serve its locality just as it always has. The distributing end of the business is exactly the same except that the smaller company may be able to offer more power than it previously could deliver. On the producing end the arrangement offers several advantages and no great disadvantages. The emergency capacity already referred to need not be maintained. Auxiliary plants may be put into regular operation, as increases in demand warrant until the entire capacity is running regularly. The super-power system will furnish additional power as it is needed. If none is used, none is paid for. In some cases this extra equipment may be put to work at once and the surplus power sold through the system to other companies needing it. Equipment, then, will work a greater part of the time. Many small companies may find that they can buy power from the system at less than it costs to produce it in a small plant. In which cases they close their plant margin of profits. If a company, on the other hand, can produce more cheaply than it can buy from the system it continues to produce and only buys power in an emergency. A high cost producer then gets its power for less than it is now paying and is therefore in a stronger position. A low cost producer continues to operate exactly as it is today except that it is relieved of the burden of auxiliary equipment and has a possible market for its surplus power. In any case the property is in a stronger position and should be a better investment."

"A tremendous public advantage would also accrue from the economies of a super-power system. The development of water powers and the organization of systems that supply uniform electric service over large areas would make possible the electrification of many railroads. Where steam power is necessary the energy could be generated at the nearest possible point to the railroads and transmitted by high power lines to the point where it is needed."

"It is estimated that our energy requirements for 1930 will approximate 31,000,000 kilowatt hours. Super-power systems could produce and deliver this volume at a saving of $229,000,000 over what it would cost if produced under the individual plant system. A saving of some 50,000,000 tons of coal would also be made by the super-power organization in producing this volume of power."

"Just now, when we have a tremendous cash reserve and business is a bit slack—the Babsonchart shows general activity at 14 per cent below normal—we may well turn our attention toward super-power projects. And the present owners of power and light securities," concluded Mr. Babson, "can well afford to interest themselves in the promotion and development of this more effective organization of our power resources."

CALL ON THEM

Years ago, when the world wasn't so full of system as it is today, folks had to call on their neighbors to get the latest business gossip and to find out where to secure the things they needed.

Today people don't do that. They realize that their neighbors' knowledge would be painfully limited when compared with the best that their neighbors' know.

The Xenia Gazette-Republican's Classified Columns can give more buying, selling, saving, profitable opportunity information in a day than all your neighbors can in a month. They list practically all of the really good offers that are born in Xenia and in Greene County.

SOUTH DAKOTA MAN CROWNED TRAPS CHAMP

Dayton, Aug. 27—Frank Hughes, of Moberge, S. D., won the title of Amateur Trapshooting Champion of North America Tuesday when he broke 199 out of a possible 200 targets in the headlining event of the program staged by the American Amateur Trapshooting Association at its new home grounds near Vandalia.

After missing his first target, Hughes performed one of the most remarkable feats ever witnessed in the history of trapshooting when he shot 199 successive targets without a miss.

Hughes just recently returned from abroad as a member of the Olympic winning trapshooting team and will now be crowned the world's champion at single targets for the next year.

Frank Trosh, of Portland, Ore., and C. W. Olney, of West Alice, Wis., were tied for second place, as each broke but one less target than Hughes.

Both had phenomenal scores of 198 out of 200. Olney was crowned champion of the various states with his score of 198.

Miss Georgiana Hobson, 16, Bowling Green, Ky., carried off the title of women's champion of America with a score of 185 out of 198.

Arthur Killam, of St. Louis tied with J. M. Hawkins, New Haven, Conn., in the professional championship race and won the shoot off from him by breaking twenty-five straight targets to the latter's twenty-four.

Dudley Shellcross, of Sledunk, R. I., annexed the junior's championship by a score of 98 out of 100, while the zone team championship was won by the Prairie Zone team with a total score of 976 out of 1,000.

NAT REISS SHOWS DRAW BIGGER CROWDS EACH NIGHT DURING ENGAGEMENT FOR XENIA EAGLES

Amusement lovers are evidently finding the Nat Reiss Shows, playing a week here at the Reserve Park, Cincinnati Avenue under the auspices of Xenia Eagles, much to their liking.

The "traveling amusement park" played to an immense crowd Tuesday night, the second night of the engagement, crowds swarming the grounds, visiting the side shows and attractions, and patronizing the concessionaires.

Officials of the company, who have made many friends during their stay in Xenia, were more than pleased with the size of the crowd and appreciative audiences and Eagles were glad that the public is responding to their efforts to raise a fund that will equip the new gymnasium and make it possible for public use.

Harry Melville, owner of the Nat Reiss Shows, insures the quality of his productions and the high moral tone of the entire company, through membership in the Showman's Legislative Committee of America, which bars companies producing attractions that do not maintain a high moral tone.

There are no "girl shows" or shows "for men only" on the Nat Reiss lot, tents and equipment are clean and new, the grounds are well lighted and well policed, and every attraction offers a complete measure of entertainment that has convinced Xenians they are participating in something better than the usual type of carnival.

The riding concessions are making a popular hit with show goers. Four big offerings under Mr. Byrd, head of the riding device department, are exerting an unusual appeal. Chief among these is the Merry-Mix-up, an entirely new device, which is proving the biggest riding attraction on the grounds.

The Whip, the Caterpillar, another new feature here, the merry-go-round and the ferris wheels are also deserving of their measure of popularity.

Booths offer unusually new and high class merchandise for their patrons, and eating and refreshment places are clean and inviting. George Elser's Minstrels with a dozen talented colored performers, is proving a big attraction. Patrons gape at the thrilling motorcycle riding in the motordrome and at the mystifying acts of Rajah Bahoid in the Ten-in-One side show.

Charles Sweet's Wild West Show features Miss Georgia Sweet with the educated horse, Mabel, a revelation in animal intelligence.

The Through the Clouds, Box of Fun, Athletic Arena, Lucille, the Upside Down Family, are also proving popular. The shows remain here a week, closing at midnight Saturday night, when the winners of the popularity contest will be announced. ## FRAME LEADS STANDING IN QUOT GAME

The fourth round of quolt play at the grounds of the Xenia Quolt Club to determine a city champion was pulled off in fine shape Tuesday evening before a large crowd. Each contestant will play approximately twenty-one games during the tournament before a winner can be named.

A new entry in the tournament, Lawrence Wagner, played his first games Tuesday night, and got away to a good start winning four games and losing only one.

As some entries have engaged in more games than others, it is difficult to determine the leader at the end of the fourth round, but the total points of the leaders according to the number of games played shows that Frame is leading the van without the loss of a game, followed by Watkins, two points behind.

Prizes will be awarded for first, second, third, fourth and fifth places at the end of the tournament. Prize lists will be announced later. The fifth round of play is scheduled for Thursday of this week.

The standing of the ten leaders:

	Points	Possible
Frame	126	126
Watkins	145	147
Wagner	100	105
W. Smith	156	168
Devoy	134	147
Oglesbee	133	147
C. C. Henrie	92	105
Patterson	109	126

NEW JUNIOR HIGH TEACHER TO GIVE BAND INSTRUCTION

E. G. Whitworth, graduate of Earlham College where he was leader of the college band and solo cornetist, has been appointed as a teacher in Central Junior High School. It is announced by C. A. Waltz, superintendent of city schools.

Mr. Whitworth has had a wide experience in band and orchestra work. There has been a desire on the part of the students and faculty of the schools to have a real school band and to increase the interest in orchestra work. Mr. Whitworth is well prepared to do this work and will be given full charge of this department in the grades and high school. He will have regular teaching duties, however, and much of this work will have to be done outside the regular school hours, according to Mr. Waltz.

A great many younger boys in the schools have expressed a desire to learn to play the cornet. Mr. Whitworth is a specialist on this instrument and can also give lessons on the alto and bass horns. All parents who would like to have their boys take lessons on these instruments should communicate with Supt. Waltz as soon as possible. These lessons will be open to all boys in the grades as well as in the high school. A number have already expressed a desire to take these lessons and we hope that many more will be encouraged to do so. We are anxious to build up a large school band consisting of boys and girls from all the grades of the school. It has been found that such an organization is valuable in creating a greater interest in the regular school work as in the music itself.

A special hour during the regular school day will be set aside for these lessons. All pupils who take this work will be excused from their regular school work to come to the Central High School building where Mr. Whitworth will give these lessons. Any girls who desire to take lessons on the cornet, bass or alto horns will be permitted to do so. A nominal fee will be charged for a term of lessons.

MARY HAYWARD, a famous beauty, arrives at the country home of CAMILLA WAITE with two men, BRUCE GILLIAN and STEWART O'BRIEN. Camilla warns Mary that she is in love with Bruce and that there is to be no poaching on her matrimonial preserves. Camilla realizes that Bruce is much interested in Mary, and plots with O'Brien to prevent his proposing to her. Camilla keeps Bruce from Mary's side at the dance that evening, but late that night Mary goes into the garden for a breath of air, and unexpectedly meets him.

It seemed to Mary Hayward that she had taken leave of life itself, that she had floated into some new universe, as she stood there in the fragrant night and heard Bruce Gillian speak to her. #### VIOLET DARE

"Mary," he said eagerly, "are you really there? I can't see you, it's so dark."

She hesitated an instant, then laid her hand in his. Quickly he took it in both his own.

"Do you know that it's Midsummer Night's Eve?" he demanded. "There's magic in this night. Sit down here on this bench with me, won't you? There are so many things I want to say to you."

She sat at his side. Honeysuckle and roses bloomed all about them; in the swimming pool nearby water lilies floated, and at its edges heavy-scented flowers of the night weighted the air with their fragrance. Mary forgot Camilla and her claims, forgot the burden of debt that shackled her whole existence, and thought only of the man who sat there holding her hands.

"I want to tell you everything there is to know about me, Mary," he began, leaning forward so that his shoulder touched hers, trying to see her face. "But it doesn't really matter who or what I am, just now, does it? We can talk about things like that in broad daylight. Just now I want only to tell you that I love you."

"And I—," she stopped abruptly; some newborn instinct told her that they were not alone. Yet the garden was quiet, save for the murmuring of the water near their feet and the chirping of a sleepy bird. "I'll have to tell you about me, too—though probably you've heard the things people say."

"I care too much for you even to know what people say," he answered. "And all I want you to tell me about yourself is that you love me."

"I love you," she told him, simply, and as he kissed her she wondered that she had ever thought till then that she lived. With Bruce Gillian's arms around her and his lips on hers she knew what heaven was, and knew what hell could be, because it could bring her nothing worse than being taken from him.

"Will you love me always?" he asked her presently, and she, defying the superstition that hovered over her always, answered, "So much that nothing can ever separate us."

"And will you marry me at once?" he demanded, holding her close again. "Will you marry me tonight? We could go to town and wake up a justice of the peace and have the whole thing over with in two minutes. Think of it, Mary—we could be man and wife before dawn! Oh, say you will."

"Oh, I'm afraid—I don't know—" she knew that she ought to stop and consider; common sense told her that she could not rush into this paradise that opened before her and take the happiness that was offered her. And yet—after all, why not? Surely her life ought to belong to her! She could manage somehow to pay the debts she owed her aunt and the tradespeople, could manage to make Camilla be reasonable. It was the thought of Camilla that held her back, and as she hesitated, she heard a man whistling, softly, musically.

"Someone is coming!" she exclaimed, drawing away from Gillian. "Why should we care? Mary, run upstairs for a wrap, while I get my car—I'll meet you down on the drive in five minutes!"

He lifted her to her feet and was gone, obliterated by the blackness of the night. As she turned toward the house, the whistling of a moment before sounded almost at her elbow. "Beautiful night, isn't it?" Stewart O'Brien's voice was silky smooth, as it always was when he had been drinking too much. "Having a nice time out in the garden?"

"I'm just going upstairs," Mary answered jerkily.

"Yes, I know, to get a wrap and elope with Gillian. Better not, Mary—you can't afford the results, Mary, my dear. Remember Camilla."

She stood as if turned to stone. He had heard, then, and knew, too, of the weapon that Camilla held over her head!

"She's in love with him herself, you know," O'Brien went on, quietly; his voice sounded as if he were laughing at her. "She'll never stand for your walking off with him. And you've got to marry a man who has money; Gillian hasn't got a cent, I happen to know. Be sensible, Mary."

"Oh, I—I hate you!" she cried. "Possibly you do—but even so, you might better marry me than Gillian," he retorted. "It's money, not love, that you need."

She fled then, her airy black draperies catching on the rose bushes as she ran; head bent, she did not see Gillian as she passed him.
